The Rights of Colored Passengers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The inter-state comin the case of W. H. Council, colored, vs. the Western & Atlantic railroad. Council was forced to ride in what is known in the south

as a "Jim Crow" car, which is run for col-ticket. The opinion, which is by Commis-sioner Morrison, holds that the colored peo-ple may be assigned separate cars on equal terms, without advantage to either race and with increased comfort to both. The "Jim Crow" car furnished only second-class con

forts in travel, and the road must furnish colored people who buy first-class tickets ac-commodations equally safe and comfortable which was used as an exercising room and little with a false floor and having the ceilfitted with a false floor and having the ceiling boarded over to prevent the foot ball from knocking the ceiling down. In a corner was a weighing machine, alongside of which lay two sets of Indian clubs-with a six and eight-pound pair of dumbbells. On the mantel shelf was a set of boxing gloves, but Kill rain explained that they were very seldom used, as both himself and Mitchell knew welenough how to use them.

I shortly after left and journeyed to London to make my way to Smith's training quarters on the extreme southern coast, close to the sea shore, where he is residing privately with a matronly looking lady in a small cottage. At the time of my visit he was out walking with his trainer, Billy Howes, on the shore and looked very robust and healthy on entering his sitting room after a long walk. He described to me his mode of training, which is very similar to that of Kilrain's, while he sat at tea, during which I noticed he freely partook of gin in his tea, eating only watercresses and bread and butter. He asked me how Americans were betting on the coming fight, and when I told him the odds were three to one on Kilrain in America, he said: "If you can get me an even thousand you shall have a bit for yourself."

"Can you beat Sullivan, Mr. Smith ?" "Pil try if he wants to fight me, and I would be glad to take even money that I would beat him, although I expect that he will beat Mitchell in his fight, but he won't have any too easy a time of it,"

"General opinion in London is that your fight with Kilrain will take place near London."

"It cannot possibly come off in England," said Smith, laughingly, "because I am bound over to keep the peace for twelve months, and I am not going for the sake of any fight to risk getting twelve months' imprisonment."

Smith was bound over for twelve months on the 21st of December last. "But your fight don't come off until after you're clear, Mr. Smith."

"Oh, don't it," said Smith, canteringly. "Well, I don't really know myself when it does come off."

Other Old Officers Selected For Another Term-The Position of Doortender Leads to a Serious Quarrel.

Fire-Eating Southrons. WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 .- | Special Telegram to the Ber. |- The caucus of the democrats in the house to-night was most harmonious So lovely was it that several members wanted the blood of each other as a memento of the occasion, and the lovely green carpet came very near being stained red with gore. The proceedings went tamely along at first, and Carlisle, Leedom and Clarke were all renominated for speaker, sergeant-at-arms and clerk respectively, but the pleasantries began over the doorkeeper's fight. It was attempted to postpone the nominating of a doorkeeper until after the other officers were chosen, but this was not acceeded and the fun began, After Donelson and Hurt were put in nomination, Breckenridge, of Arkansas, made his bitter personal attack on Donelson. He was execedingly vindictive, and stirred the ire of the old doorkeeper's friends. He spoke for fifteen minutes an finally sat down. Theo. Blount, of Georgia, rose and began his defense of Donelson. He denied in toto the charge against Donelson in such a degree that Breckenridge sprang to his feet, and in language very plain and forcibly called Mr. Blount a liar. The gentleman from Georgia did not say a word, but walked over towards Breckenridge who was not far from him. Biff, he let go his good right arm and it landed, some say Mr. Breckenridge's nose. At any rate the member from Arkansas went down toward the ground, but railied enough to come to his feet and hit Blount an under blow in the nose, which sent the Georgia member off his The two then came together and clinched. Breckenridge got Blount by the neck and was checking him badly, and the greatest excitement ensued. It took but a minute for the combat to assume its acme when Colonel Thomas Coakley, of New York rushed upon the scene of battle and separated the combatants. The news of the scrap spread like wild fire. A negro employe rushed into Donelson headquarters shouting, "My God, they are having it hot and heavy in thar-Massa Blount and Breckenridge am at it hard and "Who is ahead?" asked one of Donelson's

"Captain Donelson, every time," rejoined the negro, "for Massa Blourt am lamming the life out of Massa Breckeuridge." One of the men who had interfered in the fight said that Breckenridge was developing into a terrible slugger, for his blows were coming fast and Blount's face was much in Breekenridge forty-one, danger of disfigurement. Blount is fifty-on years Blount old, Breekenridg than his adversary and is about five feet eight, while the Arkansas man is not over five feet five inches. Blount is smooth faced and weighs probably 160 pounds, but is rather sluggish. Brecken-ridge, who is the sen of the once renewned John C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, weighs about 145 pounds, wears spectacles, has a small light brown moustache and though slow to anger is as active as a cat and as courageous as a lien. His weight is about that of Blount and thus they were evenly matched

The committee, consisting of Senators Pugh, Blackburn, Harris and Vest, reported that it had care fully considered all the facts in the cases of Senators Turpie, of Indiana, Faulkner, of West Virginia, and all the other new democratic senators, and reached the conclusion was unanimously resolved that the entire list of new democratic senators were entitled to their seats, and in so far as the democrats could influence the matter, should be sworn in Monday. It was the unanimous opinion of the caucus that no departure from precedent should be made, and no obstacle to the admission of all the senators-elect should be anticipated. The conmittee also reported that they had examined all the credentials of the republican senators-clect and found several upon which objections could legitimately be based. The facts were aid before the caucus and discussed, but the defects being merely technical, they deter-mined to make no objections to their admission. An understanding was reached, how-ever, that should the admission of any demo crat be objected to, the party would act as a unit, according as circumstances might seem to require. It was made known that democrats held the advantage in the fact that Senator Jones, of Nevada, is absent and paired with Senator Hearst, who having a new term and is therefore not yet a senator. Upon request, the republican eratic pairs, to pairing Senator Jones with some democrat already sworn in. This re duces the voting strength of each party to twenty-four. Senators Beck and Kenns were elected respectively chairman and secre ary of the democratic caucus to serve during he coming session.

The Republican Caucus. Washington, Dec. 3.—The republican members of the house of representatives held their first caucus of this session this afternoon. Of the republican representation of 153 members 117 were in attendance. None of the four independent members-elect were present. Cannon, of Illinois, and Mc Comas, of Maryland, were respectively re-elected chairman and secretary of the caucus. McKinley, of Ohio, nominated Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, for speaker, and the nomination was confirmed by ac clamation. Reed made a brief speech, in which e counselled party harmony and predicted republican victory in the next presidential election. Nominations for the remaining election. Nominations for the remaining officers of the next house were then made as follows: Edmond McPherson, of Pennsylvania, by Representative Bayne, for clerk; vania, by Representative Bayne, for clerk; Daniel Shepherd, of Illinois, by Adams, for sergeant-at-arms; W. T. Fitch, of Ohio, by Butterworth, for doorkeeper; Charles H. Greer, of Dakota, by Nelson, for postmaster, and Francis W. Thomas, of Indiana, by Browne, for chaptain. The nominations were agreed to. Washington, Dec. 3 .- The officials of the department of state are at a loss to account for the feeling that appears to have arisen in Mexico as a result of the discussion of the Cutting case. It is said the subject has been presented to the Mexican government in accordance with the forms of the international law with a view to the settlement of the question of extra territorial jurisdiction, and iot with any intention of endeavoring to enforce the vexatious claim in an arbitrary manner. As a matter of fact there has been no new presentation of the Cutting claim against the Mexican government. CHICAGO, Dec. 3 .- [Special Telegram to the BEE.]-Congressman James Laird, of Hastings, Neb., was at the Grand Pacific hotel last evening. Mr. Laird said he was going to advocate the establishment of an experimental agricultural station in Nebraska, with an appropriation behind it that would make it a success. A number of French sc. entists had asserted that sugar cane could be grown in Nebraska with a profit to farmers and he wanted that fact practically demon strated, even if it cost a couple of millions of dollars. He was also enthusiastic about the oreign immigration bill, which was defeated by the last congress. He proposed that instead of admitting over a quarter of a million of ignorant, improvident and in many cases criminal immigrants annually to America. a aw should be made that no illiterate, moral or socialistic immigrants should be al-lowed to land on American shores. A Little Legislation Necessary. gunners will realize the urgent necessity of a goose, duck and snipe law. That the shooting is becoming poorer and poorer with each season at the once famous grounds throughout this state is easily seen by all. The past fall was the poorest season known here to the oldest inhabitants. Not even a single respectable bag of ducks was made, while the geese killed along the Platte, the most cele brated grounds in the country ten years ago counted on your fingers. The abo ishment of spring shooting altogether will be advocated in the legislature at the next ses sion and an effort will be made to enact a law for an open and close season for both ducks and snipe, and maybe geese. That the pack protection whatever, is simply preposterous. They are stringently protected throughout every state in the union save Nebraska. Prospective City League.

A movement is on foot for the organization of a city base ball league for the coming season. Last season there were at least a dozen local amateur nines here, and several of them played a game that the professionals did not dare to belittle. At any rate there would be no end of sport in a series of championship contests between purely local teams. The move should materialize by all manner of means.

The Winner Challenged. The man who carries off the championshi medal to-morrow night will evidently not be allowed to remain idle long, as the following attests:

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 2.-Editor of the BER. -I hereby issue a challenge to box the win-ner of the medal in the coming glove contest (under rules) for the middleweight cham-pionship of Nebraska, to take place between December 5, 1887, and January 1, 1888. ARTRUR ROTHERY.

Lady Patterson's Flight. Edward Rothery made another trial flight with his handsome homing bird, Ludy Patterson, yesterday, and she behaved most encouragingly. The lady was liberated from Beek's place in Council Bluffs, and although she consumed much time in circling for the bearings, she reached the cote at Rothery's in this city in exactly thirty minutes. This is not bad for so young a bird.

For Two Fifty a Side. Messrs. Swiggert and Williams, of To wanda, Kan., have accepted the challenge of Messrs. Penrose & Hardin, of this city, for a match shoot, 100 blue rocks to the man, for $250 a side. The race will be shot at St. Joe, Mo., some time during the latter part of this month. Each side has made a deposit of $50 with the American Field, Chicago. If Swig gert and Williams Beat the local shots they must score at least 195 birds out of the 200.

Interesting Local Sporting Notes. The amateur athletic club will hold a meet ing next Thursday evening at Prince & Kirby's Sixteenth street sporting headquarters. As business of importance is to be attended to a full attendance is urged. Johnny Killett, the ambitious young fol-lower of "Fistiana," has been under the weather for several days, but is up and about again, and confident of scoring the requisit number of points to morrow evening to land him a winner. J. D. McLaughlin, who played right field for the Omnhas last season in the last series of games, and who also had a short-lived experience as a Western league umpire, is in the city. He has signed for next season with the Cleveland association club.

Al Lucas, of the Red Oak (Iowa) team last season, is at the Hotel Barker. He has an offer from the Mansfield, O., State league club for the coming year. The regular monthly meeting of the Omaha Wheel club will beld at their rooms next Tuesday evening.

Joe Walsh, Omaha's doughty little short stop, has returned from Oregon. Vench, second base of the past season's Des Moines team, now under contract with Omaha, is in the city. Omaha, is in the city.

The entries in the gold medal contest on the "home trainer," which comes off at Prince & Kirby's next Saturday evening, will close the evening before. There are now twelve entries, but the management Jack Larkins, of Council Bluffs, has issued challenge to Mike Ritchie, of South Omaha, he man who essayed to stand before Jack Burke, to box him four rounds for scientific points. Ritchie comes to the front smilingly, and will meet Jack at the tourney to morro

Tommy Chandler will in all likelihood don the mits with Reddy Gallagher at the tourney to-morrow evening.

Jack Smith, of the Bluffs, will probably match his thirty-two pound English bull, "Jack," against a Kansas City dog. Charlie Aylesford, of the latter city, has been here several days trying to arrange for the match. Manager Frank Selec, of the Omaha base ball club, is at the Millard. Jack rabbits are bringing forty cents apiece in the city markets: quail $2 per dozen and Ike Weir, the Belfast spider," writes Ed Rothery that he will visit Omaha during the holidays.

There will be several good skating contests at the new ice rink, corner of Twenty-third and Harney streets, during the winter. The Omaha Toboggan club are still await ing the word from the city council which will enable them to proceed with the erection of their new slide on West Harney street. Mr. Edward Rothery has just received from Norwich, Conn.; Fall River, Mass., and New York, several pairs of the best blooded game chickens known in this country. At the boxing tourney to-morrow evening George Kendall will make an effort to lift a twenty-five-pound dumb-bell more consecutive times than any five men, who feel like going against him, can raise it in succession Captain H. A. Penrose goes to California e course of the month to meet the crack shots of the coast.

Dave Munroe, of Calhoun, offers to run any amateur sprinter in the state a 200-yard race for any amount. As an earnest that he race for any amount. As an earnest that he means business he has deposited $50 in the hands of Colonel Forbes at Rothery's sporting depot, which he hopes to find covered when he had been to the covered when he returns here Wednesday.
